WASHBASINS

Tecla inizia a dilatare la propria proposta differenziando l'offerta tra grandi consolle e lavabi pienamente coinvolti nell'attualità dell'arredo.

Tutto nell'ambito di un design che attraverso le proporzioni definisce la leggerezza delle linee e la sinuosità delle superfici. Proprio la gradevolezza tattile di queste ultime, con le loro sofisticate colorazioni, sono un ulteriore caratteristica della qualità che accompagna questa nuova produzione.

Tecla begins to expand its proposal by differentiating the offer between large consoles and washbasins fully involved in the current furnishings.

All within the scope of a design which defines , through proportions, the lightness of the lines and the sinuosity of the surfaces. Tactile pleasantness with sophisticated colours, are a further characteristic of the quality that accompanies this new production.

Designers

Antonio Bullo nasce nel 1952 a Chioggia, città della laguna veneziana legata in modo intrinseco all'acqua, elemento che influenzerà in modo sostanziale il suo approccio al design.

Dopo essersi diplomato al Magistero per la Ceramica di Faenza e, in seguito, all'Accademia di Belle Arti di Venezia in Scultura, comincia a lavorare con alcune tra le maggiori aziende del settore ceramica, esplorando le potenzialità del materiale e divenendone uno specialista.

Più tardi amplia la sua attività professionale nell'ambito dell'arredo bagno e insegna come docente di Disegno Industriale presso l'I.S.I.A di Faenza.

Oggi è conosciuto sia in ambito italiano che internazionale e si dedica a progetti di design industriale nei settori dell'arredo bagno e del wellness. La filosofia alla base del suo lavoro è quella di creare un prodotto che combini la tradizione con la novità, la massima funzionalità tecnica con le possibilità espressive della materia ceramica. Andrea Rosset è collaboratore di Antonio Bullo da molti anni e condivide con lui la stessa filosofia e approccio al design.

Andrea Rosset | Antonio Bullo

Antonio Bullo was born in 1952 in Chioggia, a city in the Venetian lagoon that is intrinsically linked to water, an element that will significantly influence his approach to design. After graduating from the Magistero per la Ceramica in Faenza and later from the Accademia di Belle Arti in Venice in Sculpture, he began working with some of the major companies in the ceramic sector, exploring the potential of the material and becoming a specialist in it. He later expanded his professional activity in the field of bathroom furnishings and taught Industrial Design at the I.S.I.A in Faenza. Today he is known both in Italy and internationally and is dedicated to industrial design projects in the fields of bathroom furniture and wellness. The philosophy behind his work is to create a product that combines tradition with novelty, maximum technical functionality with the expressive possibilities of ceramic material. Andrea Rosset has worked with Antonio Bullo for many years and shares the same philosophy and approach to design.

Lavabi dai bordi sottili

Washbasins with thin edges

Il nuovo ed esclusivo impasto ceramico, inoltre, permette di realizzare lavabi che raggiungono uno spessore di soli 6mm e ne mantiene inalterati stabilità e geometria.

The new and exclusive ceramic mixture reduces the thickness of the washbasins up to just 6 mm and keep design unaltered.

Una superficie resistente e antibatterica

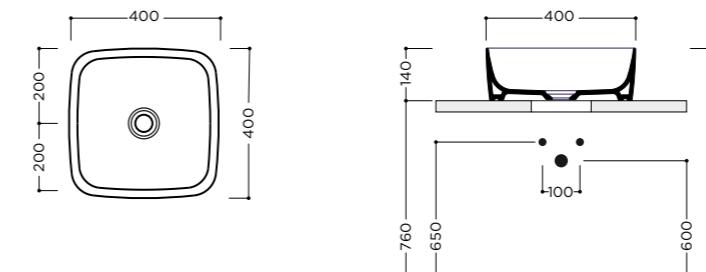

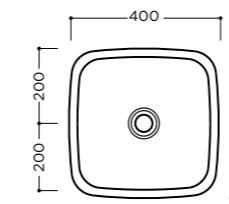

A resistant and antibacterial surface

Lo scrupoloso controllo in tutte le fasi di cottura delle ceramiche assicura al processo di sinterizzazione un'eccellente uniformità del prodotto, con una superficie non porosa, specchiante e resistente a macchie e abrasioni. Inoltre, l'azione del trattamento antibatterico dona alle ceramiche maggiore brillantezza resistenza e igiene, garantendo un prodotto più pulito e sicuro, testimone dell'attenzione di Tecla Group per la salute delle persone.

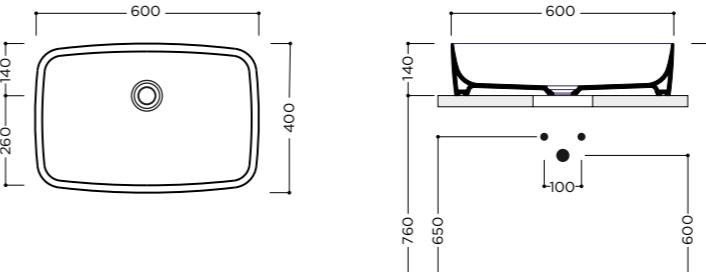

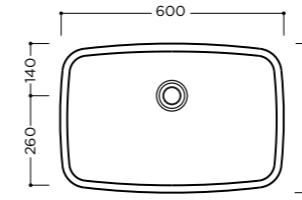

From the sintering process, a homogenous product is obtained with a smooth, mirror-like surface that is resistant to stains and abrasion. Thanks to the combined action with the antibacterial liquid treatment, surfaces are more impermeable to germs and bacteria. The result is cleaner and safer sanitaryware, a proof of Tecla Group attention to people's health.
